CALIFORNIA

North and south, California measures 770 miles or about 100 miles farther than from Shanghai to Hankow. East and west California is about 375 miles. Its area is 158,297 square miles; its population not more than 3,000,000.

The central provinces of China, Human and Hupeh, have a total area of 151,352, and a total population of 48,500,000. The population of Hankow, Hanyang and Wuchang combined is about 1,770,000.

SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco's area is 46 square miles, its population probably 600,000; the city population of Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley added, make the total metropolitan population about 1,000,000.

San Francisco Bay is 65 miles long, 4 to 10 miles wide and has sea-going ships' anchorage area of 40 square miles. The city itself has 14 hills 300 to 900 feet high; to the north is Mount Tamalpais, near 2500 feet, and to the east Mount Diablo, near 4000 feet. On the plains and hills about the bay the climate is most delightful, ranging but little from a noontime yearly average of 55° to 60° F. To the north the Sacramento River pours out its deep waters drawn from the great interior Valley. The Valley is more than 100 miles long, rich in cereals, fruits and vegetables. On all sides of the Valley, but mainly to the east, are mountain ranges, Mounts Shasta and Lassen (the latter volcanic) guarding the north, and Mount Whitney and the San Bernardino Range guarding the south.

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA

PRESIDENT EMERITUS
BENJAMIN IDE WHEELER

President Wheeler was President of the University of California for twenty years less three days, and then resigning, having attained his sixty-fifth year, was appointed by the Regents of the University President Emeritus, and Professor of Comparative Philology. At the time he came to California he had been Professor of Greek and of Classical and Comparative Philology at Cornell University, or in similar capacity there, since 1886. He was first graduate at Brown University in 1875, and he has since received the bachelors' degrees of many universities, Princeton, Harvard, Yale, Johns Hopkins, Wisconsin, Illinois College, Dartmouth, Cornell, the University of Athens, Greece, and other Universities. The University of California has honored him in naming the largest of the buildings of the new building plan, which contains many lecture rooms, Wheeler Hall. President Wheeler has always been greatly admired and beloved by Students of the University.

President Wheeler continues, as for many years, a principal factor in the friendly relations between the United States and other nations dwelling about the Pacific ocean.

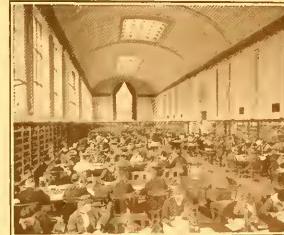

Professor Williams has been Agassiz Professor of Oriental Languages and Literature from July 1, 1918. Earlier, of the American Consular Service, 1898-9; and Diplomatic Service, 1901-8, 1911-3; and of the Division of Far Eastern Affairs, Department of State, Washington, 1909-11, and Chief of the Division, 1913-8. Counselor-in-Chief on Far Eastern Affairs, American Delegation to the Peace Conference at Paris, 1918-9.
